Grant Evaluation Criteria

The EdUCate! Teacher Grant process is intended for items valued at $200 or more.

The more information provided, the more accurately EdUCate! can evaluate and understand your needs; therefore, we encourage additional documentation and attached explanations and pictures!

As you think about your idea or project, keep in mind the following criteria with which we will evaluate your proposal:

Number of students impacted: A grant affecting 10 students would not rate as highly as one affecting 100.

Degree of impact on the students: The educational value and improvement offered over already available resources.

Longevity of the project: Workbooks that last just one year would not rate as highly as materials that could be used over 5-10 years.

Practicality: Measures whether the project is realistic and 'do-able', or likely to suffer from problems like lack of training, difficulty of coordination, etc.

Cost effectiveness: The cost per pupil or the "bang for the buck."

Innovation: Is your proposal a new or creative solution to a common problem? Are you thinking "outside of the box"?

Collaboration: The degree to which the grant involves or promotes collaboration and cooperation among different classes, grades, or schools.

Academic/Social/Emotional Impact: Will this provide education that supports the whole student academically, socially and emotionally?

At this time, field trips are not funded using Teacher Grants
